Amanda Jackson, Peter Vander Meulen and Paul Cook give their verdicts on the Durban climate change conference.

Amanda Jackson, Head of Policy and Campaigns at Micah Challenge.

It is the poorest who suffer when governments fail to deal selflessly with climate

And it is these same governments who been meeting in Durban, South Africa to discuss environmental i

The talks have achieved very little at the official level. Sadly, nations are reluctant to commit to actions th

The achievement of the Millennium Development Goals is threatened by production practices which look

The World Evangelical Alliance, with many other Christian groups, like Micah Challenge and internationa

If leaders of nations which consume the most energy cannot agree to live more sustainably, we will be h

The Bible says: "The Earth is the Lord's, and the fullness thereof..." Psalm 24:1

Because we have sinned, we have failed in our stewardship of creation. We recognize that it is the very

We believe that in Christ there is hope, not only for men, women and children, but also for the rest of cre

We recall Jesus' words that our lives do not consist in the abundance of our possessions. So we reject w

We know that until Christ returns to reconcile all things, we are called to be faithful stewards of God's go

For more information on Micah Challenge's response to climate change, see http://www.micahchallenge.org/blog/tag/mdg-edg7-environment

Peter Vander Meulen, Co-ordinator for the Office of Social Justice, and on the Mic

Paul Cook, Campaign and Media Director at Tearfund, is also a member of the Mic